

GET STRONG BEFORE SUMMER.

Hard to Gain Strength During Hot, Debilitating Weather—Most Favorable Results from Paine's Celery Compound in May.

Now or never get health and strength. The most obstinate indoor dwellers get a sniff of outdoor air in May.

No one altogether escapes the spring feeling in the blood. The most delicate and confirmed invalids now venture on short rides and walks. May is the blessed month for convalescents. "When May comes I'll get well," is the cry all through the winter. There are fewer obstacles to getting well in May, no cold winds to bring relapses and exhausting sickness, nor debilitating heat to rob one of strength.

A sweeping glance over the land would show millions of weak, nervous, ailing men and women every day growing stronger and getting rid of lingering diseases by using Paine's celery compound this month, when this remarkable blood and nerve remedy works best hand in hand with nature's purpose to give every animate thing new life, strength, and happiness in spring.

Paine's celery compound hastens convalescence from all nervous and wasting diseases. It feeds badly nourished nerves and takes away their irritability and pain. It purifies the blood and supplies rich material for new healthy tissues all over the body. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college discovered Paine's celery compound in the now famous laboratory of the college.

The world is full of busy, thankful men and women who owe their energy, health and very existence to Paine's celery compound. An immense burden of rheumatism, kidney trouble, constipation, salt rheum, eczema, disordered liver and blood diseases has been lifted from the world since Paine's celery compound came into it.

Your own physician will tell you how confidentially physicians rely on Paine's celery compound as an invigorator and strengthener for body, nerves and brain. It makes people well.

Spring is busy with marvelous rapid changes in the tissues of the body. Now is the time to permanently cure nervous weakness, neuralgia, headache and dyspepsia by using Paine's celery compound to build up healthy tissues in place of the diseased parts.

Pure, rich blood sent through the deep parts of the heart, liver, and kidneys, leaving in its passage material for rapid repair, and taking away in its stream the used-up, harmful elements, soon drives out weakness from these organs, and restores their healthy functions.

Paine's celery compound makes new, abundant blood, regulates and feeds worn-out nerves, and builds up the strength of the body.

TALKS TO A BIG CROWD

Sanders Addresses 1,500 People at the City Park.

TELLS OF HIS PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

How He Intends to Get to Washington and What He Will Do After He Gets There.

General Sanders of the Cripple Creek division of commonwealers, is looking for Kansas recruits. He fully expects to take two companies of fifty men each out of Topeka, an equal number out of Leavenworth and about half as many from Atchison; together with what stragglers may drift into camp from other points and enlist without urging. He promises transportation and plenty to eat, but wants all his followers to go from principle and a sense of duty.

For this purpose and also to keep the public mind agitated and in sympathy with Cockeyism, an immense mass-meeting was held last night at the city park. This location was very convenient for the tramps who were stretched out on the grass, for they attended the meeting without the exertion of changing their positions. There were probably between 1,500 and 2,000 people around the grand stand. It was lighted by a flickering, unreliable gasoline lamp which the strong river breeze blew into convulsions. This same breeze which seemed to be fresh from Lake Superior had anything but an enthusiastic effect on the shivering audience.

Rev. Mr. Herrington was selected as an extemporaneous master of ceremonies with the honor of introducing General Sanders. Mr. Herrington described the general as a man "for whom I have more respect than Lewelling, or Ady, Morrill or Hoch. He is just a common man, simply a Colorado miner; doesn't it seem strange to you that just a common man can stir up such a sentiment and bring out such an audience? It is because the people are drifting. They are expecting they do not know what. We do not know where we are at."

It was General Sanders' first appearance before a Topeka audience except for a few words he spoke from the top of the cars a few days ago before he started for Leavenworth. Sanders began by saying, modestly, that he was not an orator, but a plain working man like most of those before him. He resumed: "We are going to Washington peacefully to demand legislation that is needed by the laborers of the United States. We will first ask for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Next we will ask for $500,000,000 in greenbacks. The government is about to give $100,000,000 for the construction of the Nicaragua canal. This would not benefit American labor in the least. The same money towards digging irrigation ditches in the west here would give employment to thousands of men out of work at home, and open up the finest land the sun ever shone upon. We believe these would restore prosperity."

"The question is asked, 'Why go? why not send a petition?' I will tell you why. If we have the same influence on congress we have on the railroad, we will get all we want and more, and the senators will all go to Europe for their health. [Laughter and applause.]

"There are 280,000 men in this country now out on strikes. They have been submitting to reduction after reduction for thirty years, and the laborers are getting tired of it. The question is, shall we submit to oppression for the rest of our lives, or go on to Washington and strike for our rights."

"When we were confronted in western Kansas with a wrecked engine on the track, and wrecked cars on both sides, we didn't say, 'We can't get around this, let's sit here and starve.' We built around it, and went on our journey. There are thousands of people saying, 'We can't do anything, let's starve.' That isn't right. They should get up and exercise their great American right to protest."

"I want to say right here that I don't believe in going out and capturing trains for a few dollars for for's too big to steal. I made the Missouri Pacific people a plain offer of $1,000 to take us to the Missouri river, but they would not even condescend to reply to my telegram. Then I did the next best thing."

"I am going to Washington and I know my men are. What is more, we expect to make the same good impression there we have made in Topeka. I have nearly arranged to go from Kansas City to St. Louis on a steamer, then to Cairo and up the Ohio to Pittsburgh, which I understand is within 140 miles of Washington. I also understand there are a good many railroads running out of Pittsburgh. When we get to Washington we propose to make the same good impression there we have made in Topeka. We will march up Pennsylvania avenue, keep off the grass and get permission to sit in one of the public galleries in the capitol. Then we will state our case just as though we were before some township trustees and wanted a road through our farm."

"I want to get two companies here in Topeka. There are many hardships in connection with the trip, but I can assure you plenty to eat when we get there. We have a car load of provisions waiting for us. Many men who stay at home have hearts beating in sympathy with ours."

In conclusion Sanders made a significant remark: "If congress does not grant our requests we will not rebel; congress will have rebelled against the American people."

"General" H. H. Artz was the next speaker. He said: "When a poor miner wants to go from Colorado to Kansas he can't go at less than full fare. If $50 of the sum he pays for his transportation they are ignored. How different are they from the hotel men who own property and wear broadcloth. The railroads refuse to let the common people ride in box cars, but they carry the hotel men in palace coaches as far as they want to go for $2 a head!" [Applause.]

Artz continued: "The arming of the national guards with rifles of the most improved pattern and the manufacture of the biggest guns in the world, is not for the purpose of keeping out foreign invasion, but to keep down the American people."

S. M. Scott, chairman of the board of public works, was the next speaker. He differed from all the rest of the speakers inasmuch as he did not approve of marching on to Washington. "The only way to get out of our present difficulty," he said, "is to vote out of it. Kansas has some men at Washington who are not

NICHOLSON'S CHANCES.

He Doesn't Seek a Nomination but Would Take It if Offered.

Judge M. B. Nicholson of Council Grove, is one of the most prominent of the men mentioned as candidate for associate justice on the Populist ticket.

He said to a Journal reporter today: "I am not a candidate. I will not say that I shall not be, for I do not know what may happen, but I think that is one of the offices for which there should be no unseemly scramble. The position is too dignified and honorable for anything of that kind."

"As for me I am out of politics. I have held office enough to know that it is true that 'uneasy is the head that wears a crown,' and I am not anxious to get into the political rut. I am a lawyer and I am in love with my profession and make my living by it and I am not a politician except in the sense that every American citizen should be a politician."

"Do you think the present state officers will be renominated?"

"Yes; I must confess that I do. I have been over a great deal of the state and I am satisfied that there will be very little opposition to their nomination."

"What about fusion?"

"I don't know a thing about fusion for you know I am out of politics."
